

Management for All.

Management specialist MSOL has begun offering a new management service called "Management Canvas."

April 9, 2021

Supporting the management of customers—with a focus on traded companies—under the brand vision "An engine driving management and the world." Management Solutions Co., Ltd. (Headquarters: Minato-ku, Tokyo; President and CEO: Shinya Takahashi) has begun offering "Management Canvas (M'can)," a new service that provides management education on a diverse range of human resource topics to both business and individuals.

■ Service Background

Our Mission: Contribute to society's happiness through management. In society today, there exist a great number of disparities born from factors such as home and work environments. Management Canvas aims to eliminate those disparities through management education so anyone can achieve anything they want, and hopes to realize a society of "happiness" where anyone can lead a fulfilling life.

■ Logo

The service is called "Management Canvas," as we hope all those who aspire to manage will share the canvas and paint it with their diverse ideas of management. Additionally, the logo represents a bridge that connects actions and projects, and expresses diversity through a colorful color scheme.

■ Benefits of Joining Management Canvas

Through projects, you will acquire the management skills needed to realize the future you envision and do the things you want to do. You will also be able to receive professional certification for the practical skills you gain. (PMO Certification)

Certified people will be provided with knowledge such as know-how and templates for practicing PMO, and will be able to participate in seminars of interest and matching events for the projects they wish to participate in. You will also receive support from concierges for career development and project practice. (Service Rollout Scheduled)

*Project Management Office (PMO): Organizations and people who support projects in companies, etc., across departments.

■ Management Canvas Overview

Management Canvas has four main areas, and will gradually expand to provide more services in the future.

○ Education/Certification:

- We certify the practical skills of human resource personnel who aspire to management.
 - Project Management Office (PMO) Human Resources Certification
 - Facilitator (Educator) Human Resources Certification

○ Providing Knowledge
